

Holes

By Louis Sachar

DISCUSS

Talk through your thoughts.

- Stanley has bad luck throughout his life and finally has “good luck” at the end of the story. Discuss what sort of good & bad luck you have in your life.
- Stanley is wrongly accused of stealing tennis shoes. Talk about a time you were wrongly accused of something. How did it make you feel?

CREATE

Make an experience of your own.

- Try canning! Have an adult help you can some peaches!
- Create your own treasure map.

IMAGINE

Use your imagination to explore.

- Imagine you are in Stanley’s shoes and must spend your day digging holes at Camp Green Lake. What sorts of things would you do to help pass the time?
- Imagine you have run off into the desert like Stanley and Zero. What sorts of tools and resources would you want with you? How would you survive? Write a journal about it.

EXPLORE

Like this book? Find more:

- Stanley Yelnat’s Survival Guide to Camp Green Lake by Louis Sachar
- Hatchet by Gary Paulsen
- Because of Winn-Dixie by Kate DiCamillo
- Hoot by Carl Hiaasen